Announcement on the Survey Feedback on the HKEX's New Board Concept Paper, Consultation Paper on the Review of GEM and Changes to Listing Rules
Tuesday, 1 August 2017

On 1st August, 2017, The Institute of Certified Management Accountants (CMA) conducted 2 surveys, seeking the views of its members and other non-member professionals on the New Board Concept Paper (comprising New Board Pro and New Board Premium) and the Consultation Paper on the Review of the Growth Enterprise Market (GEM) and Changes to the GEM and Main Board Listing Rules issued by the HKEX.

Survey on the New Board Concept received 97 responses, and majority of respondents are in favour of the HKEX's proposition to establish a New Board. It is believed that provisions under the New Board will attract and promote the listing of "new economy" companies, giving a positive boost to trading volumes in the future, ensuring that the HK stock market stays invigorated against the backdrop of rapid economic development. Providing more financing opportunities for "new economy" companies effectively creates economic drivers to further establish Hong Kong's position as a global financial centre.

Some of the members and non-member professionals responded that relaxing the listing requirements currently provided under New Board Pro would further enhance Hong Kong's ability to attract companies from New Economy sectors. Other respondents expressed views over the possibility of lowering future investment thresholds as the current proposition is such that New Board Pro would be open to professional investors only, whilst New Board Premium would be open to retail investor participation. According to the 2016 Global Wealth Databook published by Credit Suisse, only an estimated 115,000 people in Hong Kong qualify as professional investors. Therefore, it is believed that relaxing such investment threshold would result in a more active New Board Pro.
